

RHSE Parent Survey Feedback

1. Are you aware that in September 2020, the education of Relationships and Health education will be statutory in Primary Schools?

72 responses

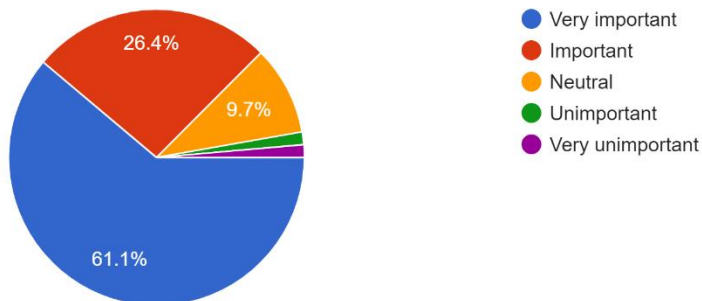

2. Are you aware that your child has already been learning about Relationships and Health in their PSHE lessons?

72 responses

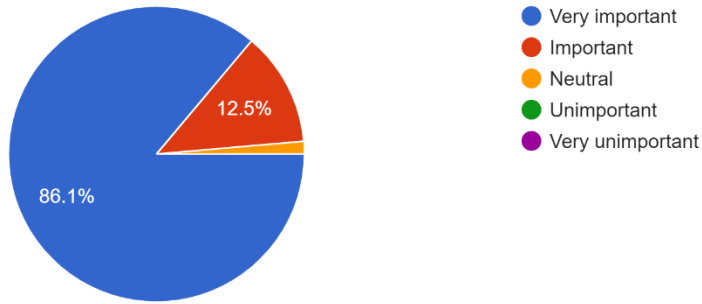

3. How important do you feel it is for children to learn about Relationships at school?

72 responses

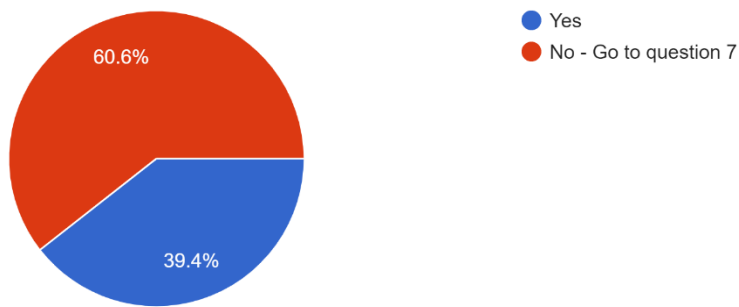

4. How important do you feel it is for children to learn about Health (physical and mental wellbeing)?

72 responses

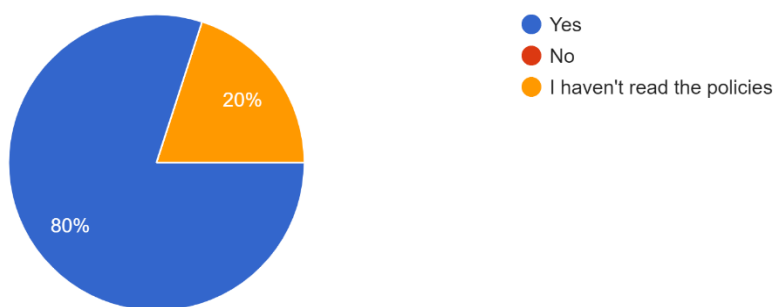

5. Have you read the school draft policies for Relationships and Education (RHE) and Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) on our website?

71 responses

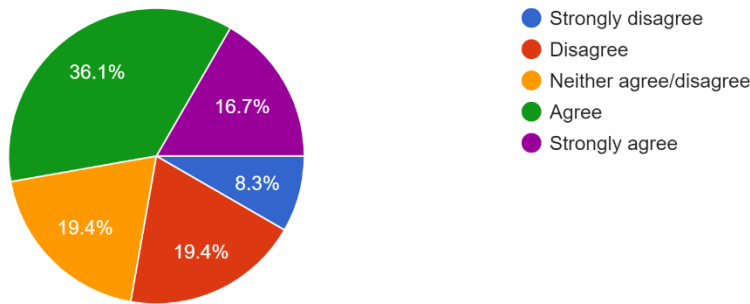

6. If you have read our draft policies, are you satisfied with the amount of information provided about your child's education in Relationships and Health?

35 responses

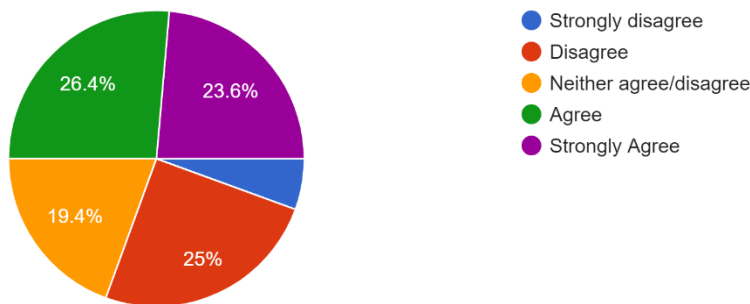

7. How much do you agree with the following statement: 'I am fully aware of what my child will learn about in Relationships and Health education.'

72 responses

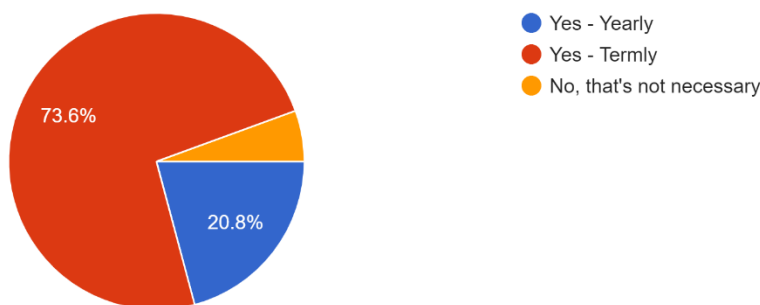

8. How much do you agree with the following statement- 'I understand which aspects of the Health, Relationships and Sex Education are compu...and which aspects I can withdraw my child from.'

72 responses

9. Would you like to know what topics of Relationship and Health your child is learning about?

72 responses

10. Are there any aspects of Sex Education that you think your child should NOT learn about when they have these lessons in Year 6?
Please give reasons.

No
Insufficient information to make a decision.
Yes its not appropriate in Primary School and strongly object!
No.
Too young for information about: Foreplay, masturbation, sex toys, anal penetration.

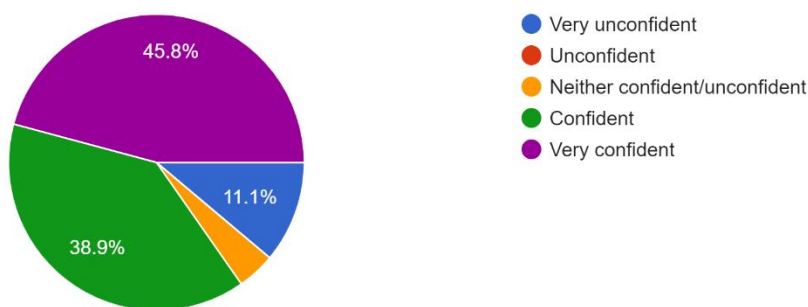

No
 No, and I hope boys are included in discussions about menstruation - and I also hope it includes same sex relationships.
 LGBT- religion,
 I think they are to young to fully understand what sex is
 They need to learn about all aspects as they will be covered in more detail in year 7 science anyway
 First, I want to see topics and than I can give answer to this question.
 What is appropriate for the age of the child
 No teach everything
 No, they need a neutral perspective from a non biased influential adult.

11. Are there any other aspects that you would like your child to learn about in Health, Relationships and Sex Education?

No
 I think in year 6 they should be told about sex online the dangers/ sexual predators in the most appropriate way. Children of 11 have mobiles and not all parents are aware of the dangers and how to protect them.
 Maybe about transgender, nonbinary, pansexual. I think maybe this should only be done with the older classes as it maybe too much information for younger classes to process? Boys mental health and that it is important for them to feel they can talk to someone, to get rid of the stigma of men being able to ask for help if needed. Protected characteristics and a better understanding of what they are, and how it is illegal to discriminate against someone because of them.
 Emphasis of love, respect and 'no' means 'no'.
 Disease and contraception
 Radio 2 had a phone in about child grooming and drugs .
 All aspects
 First, I want to see topics and than I can give answer to this question.
 Autism and relationships, more focus on diversity

12. How confident are you discussing Relationships and Health topics at home?

72 responses

13. Do you have any questions you would like to ask regarding Relationships and Health education? We will collate these questions and feedback in due course.

No

Can parents have more detail on what is to be taught.

If there is anything we can do at home to help contribute towards this learning as I feel it is a very important topic.

No

What resources do you implement when delivering this sensitive subject?

I would like to know to what detail you will be going in to so I know what to expect when my child comes home with further questions they may ask

I would like to hear more about the age appropriateness of the topics as some children are less advanced/informed than others.

None

Are there any topics about rapes and is that told to kids that it is bad to rape someone and do it without persons consent?!

If possible it would be nice to have more feedback from the teachers on what they are learning and when as some children are not always forthcoming with what they've learnt.

Will we be told date these sessions begin? In Which year group will they start?

14. Do you have any comments you would like to make regarding Relationships and Health education?

No

I have told my daughter all about sex and the changes her body is going through because she was starting to develop and I wanted her to know why and what was happening to her body. I used an usbound book recommended by Mrs Perrett called "what's happening to my body" and I think the visual aid really helped. Talking about these things when they're younger, but mature enough to understand, is better because they are less embarrassed and it's more of just a fact of life.

N/A

My three children are donor conceived, which they are aware of. Whilst I appreciate this probably wouldn't be a topic for general discussion, it is important for teachers to be aware and that children may volunteer this information when talking about related issues.

I think it is an important subject to help develop a generation who are diverse, non judgemental, empathetic and understanding of people's needs and beliefs.

I feel this subject is very important and I am very happy that this is now compulsory within the curriculum.

I think it is really important for children to have this input.

No

I would be comfortable if I was informed about what they were learning so I was prepared for follow up questions at home.

Keep up the good work

Thank you!

I think it's fantastic that schools are now recognising this subject needs to be more at the forefront of education, teaching life skills and informing children and making them more aware of relationships and their mental and physical wellbeing especially this day in age. As above I would just like to be more informed about the structure of the lessons and what's discussed

Thankyou

I feel this is invaluable and important to child development.

I agree children should be fully educated on these matters because understanding is the catalyst for raising accepting young people growing up in a diverse society.